

1 EXT/INT. NAPA AUTO PARTS - DAY

1

JOE, a middle-aged white man (redneck), is dressed in overalls with one shoulder strap hanging down, a NAPA auto parts employee shirt, a trucker hat, and cowboy boots. Joe is sitting behind the counter with his legs propped on the counter. He is on the landline talking with the phone to his ear.

JOE

I met this smokeshow during mass the other day! I even gave a little more in the offering just to catch her eye. I could tell she was giving me the eye down the pew! Until I realized she was a man! Mama, I'm never gonna find love.

MARIANNE

Awww poor Joey, you know what I always say, if it's true love, our lord and savior, Jesus Christ, will crash you into each other down the road.

Through the door window, Joe notices an old janky car pulling into the parking lot and parks in front of the store.

JOE

Mama, I gotta get going a customer's walking in.

MARIANNE

Alrighty doll, love you

JOE

Love you, mama.

Joe hangs up the phone and pretends to work on the computer. The sound of a doorbell is heard and Joe sees a white woman's legs with high heels in his peripherals.

JOE

Welcome in

Tiffany with a southern accent.

TIFFANY

Thank you, sweetie pie.

Tiffany's accent catches Joe's eyes and he stops typing. He picks his head up and walks around the counter to find Tiffany in an aisle. He hears some keys fall to the floor behind him. He turns around and bends down to grab the keys. Joe and Tiffany lock eyes and begins to stand back up, Joe gasps. Tiffany, a middle-aged white (redneck) woman, is wearing a tacky sundress dress and very distinctive high heels. Her hair moves back and forth. Joe's jaw is open with a slight smile. Joe shakes his head to snap back into reality. Tiffany smiles.

TIFFANY

Well, thank you

Joe replies with a southern accent

JOE

Of course pretty lady. Honda's are a god-gifted car if you ask me.

TIFFANY

Amen, brother.

Tiffany turns around and continues to look at the products on the shelf. Joe walks a few aisles over and wipes down the shelf with a rag pretending to work but continues to stare at Tiffany over the aisle.

Tiffany grabs random products and walks up to Joe standing behind the cash register.

JOE

Is that all for you dear?

TIFFANY

That's it, Peach!

JOE

That will be (Specific price for a specific product)

TIFFANY

Alrighty.

Tiffany continues to stare Joe into his eyes and goes to swipe her card but misses the machine. She tries again and misses multiple times. Both have their eyes locked in and have slight smiles.

TIFFANY

Oh heavens, You got my head in a mess.

Joe chuckles and Tiffany looks down to swipe the card.

JOE

Have a blessed day, ma'am.

2 EXT. NAPA AUTO PARTS PARKING LOT

2

Joe at his cash register looks through the glass door and sees Tiffany struggling to start her car. Joe walks out of the store to help Tiffany with her car problems.

JOE

Do you need some help with that, miss?

TIFFANY

I reckon a Jumpstart will do it. I have some cables in the back if you would be a dear and help me jump it.

JOE

A pretty girl like yourself shouldn't have to jump her own car. My car is actually parked right there.

Points to honda parked right next to Tiffanys

JOE (CONT'D)

How does this sound, I fix your car and you give me your cellular phone number?

TIFFANY

That sounds like a fair trade to me, cowboy! Give me your hand I'll write it down for you.

Tiffany takes a marker from the cup holder and grabs Joe's hand. She writes her number on the back of his hand. Joe smiles and walks to his car. Tiffany walks to the back of her car, opens the trunk, and grabs the cables as she leaves her trunk open. Meanwhile, Joe opens his car door and leans over to pop his hood. The two stare at the two cars with their hoods open. Tiffany hands Joe the cables and he begins to hook up the two cars. Joe turns his head and again looks at Tiffany entranced, her hair blowing in the wind with a glow to her face.

JOE

Miss, I gotta say you are as pretty as a peach.

TIFFANY

Aren't you precious, well thank you, kind soul. I think I'm in love.

Joe smiles and looks at Tiffany head to toe.

JOE

You got the prettiest outfit I've ever seen.

TIFFANY

Aren't you a doll!

Tiffany gets in her car.

JOE

(yells)
Go ahead and start the vehicle.

The car starts up and Tiffany smiles.

TIFFANY

You are my hero!

Joe smiles and hands Tiffany the cables.

JOE

Anything for you precious!

Tiffany with the cables in her hand walks to the back of her car and throws them in the trunk. She slams the trunk shut and opens her driver-side door.

TIFFANY

Don't forget to call me.

Tiffany sits in her car turns it on and reversers fast out of her spot. Joe, smiling waves her goodbye and looks down at his hands which are dirty and covered in soot. Joe walks into the store bathroom and washes his hands thoroughly. He looks at himself in the mirror with confidence and a smile. Joe looks down a the hands again and relies he had washed off half the numbers she had written on his hand.

He clicks on a random time and Tiffany is standing out front walking into the store from the day before. He zooms in smiles and takes a snapshot. The footage is in black and white and very bad quality and it gets even worse when he zooms in. Joe opens the picture.

JOE Praise Jesus!

Joe stands next to the printer as hundreds of missing flyers print out. On the flyer is "Please help me find her!" in big text at the top. In the middle is the black and white crappy security camera snapshot. Below is the text " If you know her, please call (393)728-2782 a reward will be given". MARIANNE (JOE'S MOM)

(on phone)

Awww, baby boy, what is bringing you down? Is the devil pulling your tail again?

JOE

I met the love of my life and I have lost her and I don't know how to find her! I have tried everything I have even called every number in the area!

MARIANNE

(on phone)

Aw, poor Joey. Don't try to rush gods work. The Lord does things in storage ways and you gotta trust him! I promise you will bump into her again down the road if it's meant to be

JOE

Thank you, Momma! I needed to hear that!

MARIANNE

(on phone)

Of course, sugar plum. Your daddy's acting up again so I gotta go. Bye now

Joe replies sadly.

JOE

Love You, Momma.

Joe walks into his house and lies on his couch. He turns on the TV to see a romantic scene in a movie. Joe begins to cry and rolls over. Joe gets up walks to the fridge and grabs a can of beer. He sits on the couch and changes the channel to a depressing movie. Joe slowly starts to fall asleep.

Joe cries so hard that he can't see anything in front of him and as he wipes his tears away, right in front of the NAPA, he rear-ends the person in front of him. The airbag goes off and the sound of ringing is heard while Joe's vision goes black and then blurry. His vision comes back and he sees someone walking up to his car. Someone opens Joe's door. Joe only sees this person's shoes as his vision is impaired. They are tall blue High heels.

TIFFANY

Need a ride?

Joe slowly looks up.

Tiffany smiles and winks at him.

Joe gets out of his car like nothing happened with the biggest smile on his face.

JOE

Tiffany! It's you it's really you!

Joe pulls Tiffany in for a tight hug.

TIFFANY

Why haven't you called me?

JOE

You have no idea what I've been through to try and find you.

Joe and Tiffany share a passionate kiss.

TIFFANY

I have been looking everywhere for you as well! Every time I came into the store to see you, Jerry was working the front desk!

Joe's jaw dropped.

TIFFANY

It's alright doll don't you worry. We are here now. Praise the lord you're ok! Come on let's take a drive! We can sit under my walnut tree on my farm and talk about our lives.

JOE
That sounds heavenly!

Tiffany and Joe walk to Tiffany's car and sit inside it.
Tiffany goes to start her car and it doesn't start.

TIFFANY Dagnabit!

JOE
Don't worry sugar peach I got it.
