

Stepping Out of My Shell

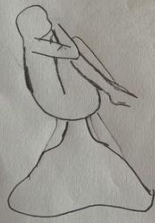

Stepping out of My Shell is a piece describing my introverted nature and my desire to become more extroverted in the next part of my life: university. I also was very inspired by the idea of the lightbox and thought that if I added blue or white LEDs and music, I could make a really interesting ocean scene. Combining both the metaphorical nature of the girl in the shell as well as the LEDs, I thought this would be the perfect project for me. I also thought that if this goes well enough, I could ultimately make this a dorm decoration in my future college dorm, as a reminder to myself of my time at Freestyle and the promise I made to make friends, go out, and enjoy my college years.
